Pioneer Keeneey Family

KEENEY, REV.
JONATHAN
ANTHONY

Rev. Jonathan Anthony Keeneey was born in Greenbrier Co., WV, February 10, 1778, the son of John and Arnie Keeneey. The family moved to Cooke Co., TN around 1790. On December 4, 1803 Jonathan was married to Mary McGlothlin. All the Keeneeys were members of the Big Pigeon Baptist Church of that area and in 1813 Jonathan was "given liberty to preach." Around 1820 he moved his family to western Indiana. He spent much of his time in traveling and preaching and left his prosperous business and considerable property in the care of clerks and hired hands, taking a financial loss. By 1830 he had moved to the green country of Montgomery Co., IN. He gave each of his children 40 acres there hoping to keep the family together and close to him. But by 1846 his son Charley moved to Iowa, establishing the town of Avon (old Avon), and by 1848 Rev. Jonathan Anthony Keeneey, all his sons and daughters and grandchildren, with the exception of some John Hiram and Peter, had followed Charley to the Avon, Carlisle and Scotch Ridge areas.

The children who moved to Iowa were Joseph Seabury, Charles, Jonathan, Samuel Thomas, and daughters Elizabeth and husband Alanson Harrison, Nancy Ann and husband Samuel McCoy, and Mary Hannah and husband William Edwards.

Rev. Jonathan lived only a few years in Iowa. He died September 2, 1850 and was buried in the Watts family graveyard, later called the Avon Cemetery. Mary McGlothlin Keeneey died 15 years later on September 3, 1865 at the home of her son, Charles, and was buried beside her husband.

Today there are still many descendants of Rev. Jonathan Keeneey in the Carlisle area.

Rev. Samuel Thomas Keeneey

The Rev. Samuel Thomas Keeneey was born February 21, 1818 near Crawfordville, IN. He was married to Elizabeth Ethel Kessler February 2, 1848. Soon after their marriage, they came to Iowa in a wagon. It took them three weeks. They settled on some land near Carlisle. Like his father and grandfather, he was a minister in the Regular Baptist Church. His grandfather, the Rev. John Jonathan Keeneey, was born at Keeneey Knob, WV. His father, the Rev. John Anthony Keeneey, was born at Jefferson City, TN. His mother, Mary Hannah McGlothlin, was born in Greenbrier Co., WV. They were known to be a religious family. Both parents are buried in the Avon Cemetery.

Not much is known of Rev. Samuel's early life to the writer, except for his ministry, visiting the sick, comforting the bereaved and performing marriages, as he traveled by horseback or buggy.

The first tax he paid was for $40 in 1860 for taxes in 1849. The writer has most of his paid tax receipts up until the time of his death December 11, 1900. Also the family Bible bought in 1856.

Soon after his death, Elizabeth went to live with her son, Elmer and family. She told of the time, when Rev. Samuel was gone, two Indians came. They opened the door, came in and sat down on chairs. The oldest son, Benjamin, was a tiny baby. She was sure they had come for him. She took a tea towel, wrapped up some freshly baked bread and other food and offered it to them. They accepted it, and "Ugh" and left.

Elizabeth was a devoted Christian. A custodian of the Baptist Church was the "Washing of the Feet" at their June meet-

Ralph Keeney's collection

Ralph R. Keeney of The Dalles began collecting boys books about 1971 and his hobby sort of grew into other areas.

Browsing through some of his collection recently, he uncovered a story which the Oregonian published in 1885. It was written about the snowstorm in The Dalles which paralyzed almost everything.

There was a train trapped in the Gorge. A little mail came through an snowshoe from Goldendale.

Apparently the writer of the story was in The Dalles, but is not identified by name.

The storm came five years before The Oregonian began publishing on Dec. 5, 1890. The Dalles Times Mountaineer files reveal a few items on the storm and are included here following the piece, Keeney found in the Oregonian.

THE STORM AT THE DALLES

From the Jan. 8, 1885

Oregonian

Never since the first settlement of Wasco County has so much snow been seen on the ground at one time as lay over nearly every portion of its county on the first day of January. Commencing Saturday, December 13, snow fell almost constantly for twenty days and when the storm cleared away, 100 inches had fallen, which had settled until the actual depth was not far from sixty inches. A week after the storm began every town and settlement in the county was so completely isolated as if it was a distant thousand miles from any other place. Traveling even upon horseback was impossible and for many days The Dalles was the hub of the universe for all who chanced to be caught within its limits.

From The Personal Collection Of:

Ralph R. Keeney,
214 E. 13th St.
The Dalles, Ore.

The Dalles Weekly Times—
Mountaineer

Dec. 12, 1884

A brief note that appeared in that edition on page three said: "Last Thursday about two inches of snow met the gaze of our citizens as they looked upon the outer world." The story went on to say how wonderful the snow was and how it marked the coming of winter.

Dec. 20, 1884

"SNOWED IN" "The Heavens Opened Up and The Dalles is deluged by a four-day snow storm," story stated that a "Large quantity of snow" fell and that it was causing problems with trains and other forms of communication. It reported a snow blockade at Hood River closing the tracks.

Dec. 27, 1885

"STORM TWO WEEKS OLD" A story cited disadvantages of living in the "frostier" low country from people usually one line about the weather:

Jan. 3, 1885

"THE STORM" "Had communication from the east. Received mail and news from Peedleton, Yakima and points east. Mail from Goldendale has been coming in by snowshoe so we have had regular communication with them." "40 inches of snow reported in Yakima valley. Loss of livestock feared."

Jan. 10, 1885

A report of a train that left The Dalles on Dec. 18, 1884. The train was preceded by a snow plow. "The train reached a point below Hood River when it encountered an impassable snow bank. It was then discovered that the snow had filled in behind the train trapping it where it was. The train was stranded at that point for several days until a party of men could reach it that party was taken to Bonneville." "It was reported that two people had died of starvation on the train. These reports are unfounded."
